THE "DISINTERESTED STATESMAN" TOOK A FEE.

Senator Jarvis has written a reply to the attack which "Bohemian" and the Charlotte Observer made on him. His reply damns him worse than silence would have done. When Jarvis was in Raleigh trying to get the Legislature of 1893 to "compromise" with the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, THE CAUCASIAN exposed him. We charged then that he was there as the paid attorney of the railroad. This was indignantly denied by his friends. They said he went to Raleigh at the invitation of the Governor in the interest of the State. The Raleigh dailies came out next morning after the exposure and said that Mr. Jarvis was simply a "visiting statesman" and was disinterested. That whatever advice he would give in the matter would be at the instance of the Governor and the Legislature. Mr. Jarvis now adthe attorney of the W. & W. R.
